PROBABLE CAUSE STATEMENT

On September 24, 2007 at approximately 2:15 P.M., Senior Border Patrol Agent V. Arguello, was performing line watch operations in the Imperial Beach Border Patrol area of operations. Agent Arguello was advised via service radio of a seismic intrusion device activation in an area known as Whiskey 10. This area is approximately three miles West of the San Ysidro, California Port of Entry and approximately 100 yards North of the U.S. / Mexico International Boundary Fence. Agent Arguello responded to the area and encountered three individuals on a hillside, attempting to conceal themselves in dense brush. Agent Arguello identified himself as a United States Border Patrol Agent and questioned the individuals as to their citizenship and nationality. One of the individuals, later identified as the defendant Francisco Javier MEDINA-Rojas admitted to being a citizen and national of Mexico, illegally present in the United States without any immigration documents that would allow him to enter or remain here legally. The defendant and the others were placed under arrest and transported to the Imperial Beach Border Patrol Station for processing.

Routine record checks of the defendant revealed a criminal and immigration history. The defendant's record was determined by a comparison of his criminal record and the defendant's current fingerprint card. Official immigration records of the Department of Homeland Security revealed the defendant was previously deported to Mexico on May 27, 2007 through San Ysidro, California. These same records show that the defendant has not applied for permission from the Attorney General of the United States or his designated successor, the Secretary of the Department of Homeland Security, to return to the United States after being removed.
